Level 1-Very Credible
- All of the sources have the same basic facts or information
- All of the sources support one another to create a strong set of evidence
- All of the sources strengthen, focus and highlight my point of view

Level 2-Highly Credible
- Most of the sources have the same basic facts or information
- Most of the sources support one another to create a good set of evidence
- Most of the sources strengthen, focus and highlight my point of view

Level 3- Credible
- Sources share some basic facts and information, but disagree on minor points
  - Sources support one another, but disagree on minor points
  - Sources strengthen, focus, highlight my point of view enough to be useful

Level 4-Somewhat Credible
- Sources share few basic facts or information
- Sources mostly contradict one another, there is little agreement among them
  - Sources barely strengthen, focus or highlight my point of view

Level 5-Not Credible
- None of the sources have the same basic facts or information
- Sources present conflicting and/or contradictory information
- None of the sources strengthen, focus or highlight my point of view